

March 31st, 2020

Dear Colleagues,

It is our great pleasure to invite you to join the International Lipidomics Society (ILS). ILS is a scientific non-profit organization representing and promoting lipidomics through worldwide cooperation. Our goal is to bring together the worldwide lipid community, and collaboratively in a transparent way develop the lipid field. The focus is to guide, educate, collaborate and provide services to the academic and medical communities, industries, journals and the public in lipidomics. Critical Interest Groups (IG) such as guiding the pioneering development of standardization protocols and of reference values are already underway on our internal pages and will be made publicly available on the ILS website once ready; all of this to advance basic and medical biology, drug discovery and developments, disease diagnosis and human health. ILS is your point of contact for any lipidomics research, development and commercialization activities worldwide, emphasizing on inter-disciplinary networking with other initiatives and fields and overreach borders to advance the discipline for future needs.

Now, we encourage you to become a member of ILS. Join us and be part of the future development of the lipidomics field. Your support and input are foremost valuable; it is together we shape the future. Your benefits of registering are, among others, that you can actively take part in shaping the future of the Lipidomics Community, be active in the IGs and get discounts for the upcoming ELM 2020 and International Lipidomics Conference. For example, the IG steering committees, roadmap for the standardization guidelines and ceramide protocol for the ongoing ring trial are currently being added to our internal pages. The small annual registration fee is necessary for us to maintain the ILS services.

Please contact us if you are interested to sponsor us or if you have questions concerning the benefits for corporate sponsors.

If you have any questions or concerns regarding ILS, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,

Kim Ekroos, President, ILS